
Real and sparse intersections

Alicia Dickenstein^{*1}

¹University of Buenos Aires – Argentina

Abstract

I will describe some lower and upper bounds on the number of positive solutions to parametrized systems of polynomial equations with fixed supports, inspired by applications, and pose some basic open problems. If time permits, I will present a sharp upper bound, obtained in collaboration with Ezequiel Fattori, for the number of positive solutions to a family of systems arising from the study of enzymatic mechanisms.

^{*}Speaker